

PAMELA DEMENTHE PRESENTS: STICKY DIGITS

Fifty Shades of Grey Meets Alan Partridge

Want to know how to break into the world of erotic fiction?

Self published author-ess Pamela DeMenthe is throbbing her way around the nation to share with fans the secrets of her success and present her latest scorcher, Sticky Digits.

Pamela DeMenthe presents: Sticky Digits is a hilarious solo comedy that satirises the rise of the self published erotic fiction author.

Written and performed by Jenny May Morgan this solo comedy begins with a PowerPoint led masterclass in erotic fiction. The audience, Pamela's fans and students, learn Pamela's top tips for success before she reads an excerpt from her latest novel Sticky Digits. The reading quickly descends into a surreal and dark fantasy, revealing more about Pamela than she intended.

The show was initially developed with the Arts Council and has toured to the Brighton Fringe, Edinburgh Fringe, Leicester comedy festival and The Lowry Theatre. And will return to the Edinburgh fringe 2018.

Click here for 4 minute clip

Click here for whole show

Click here for show trailer

Jenny May Morgan - Pamela DeMenthe,

Is a Manchester based performer (originally from Bristol) who graduated from Drama School in 2007. She has worked as an actor, writer and performance storyteller. She is currently part of writing collaboration, The Wednesday Collective who will be writing a piece of theatre this autumn funded by the Arts Council England. She is co-writing a comedy pilot for release in 2019.

Pamela's Audience

With a growing social media presence, Pamela has a lively online presence. On her website and social media platforms she regularly releases book covers, excerpts and video tutorials. She has identified these demographics as her main audience.

Age: 30—70 65% female

Interests: Literature, parody, alternative comedy, Stand up, erotic fiction, satire.

At the Edinburgh fringe Pamela held a well attended spoof book signing in Blackwells for a photo call.

Future plans

- Investing in digital marketing support to build the online audience and new marketing material.
- Releasing merchandise in the form of Pamela illustrated mugs, book marks and a short collection of Pamela's stories

The Lowry

Jenny will be embarking on a year long artist development program to create a new show for Pamela. The research and development period will begin in November 2018 and the performances will be a 3 night run at The Lowry in April 2019.

Tech Spec: PowerPoint screen and projector

Music through PowerPoint

Set: 1 chair and small table projector screen

Run time: 1 Hour

Age: for 16 plus—Target audience adults

Genre: Comedy / Storytelling